Hay – Local/timothy average $250- $450 a ton as hay prices fluctuate

- Purchased locally from a local ranch (Let me know if you would like to help with this)
- We go through approx. 1.5 to 2 ton a week
- 80-100 ton – This is one years' worth of hay for the rescue
- This is fed year-round as free choice

Alfalfa Pellets – We use the Wyoming or Montana grown pellets or cubes

- 12 ton – this is one years' worth of pellets/cubes (we go through one ton a month on average)
- We hot soak it so that it is a mash.
- It helps the pregnant does and to help put weight on those that come into the rescue.

Sweet Feed – We use Rocky Mountain Sweet

- 12 ton – this is one years' worth of grain (we go through one a month on average)

Goat Salt Blocks – We use Purina Goat Blocks 33#

- 20 salt blocks are the average in a year

Loose minerals – We use Purina Goat Mineral 25#

- These covers more of the macro nutrients that the goats need to stay healthy
- We go through 22-25 bags a year depending on the number of goats we get in that are not healthy – This is an easier way to give them the minerals that they need in quick way.

Stock Mineral blocks – We use Nutrena all stock block

Goat Electrolytes – We use Vitamins and Electrolytes – Durvet

Goat Treats – We use Manna pro – Goat treats + Probiotics Licorice Flavor

- Along with any horse or goat treats out there!
- Goats love treats! It also helps us be able to work with those that have come to us abused or neglected to learn to trust us.

Molasses – I purchase this in bulk through any store or online

- We use this to help goats want to eat when they are sick

All-flock – we use either country Companion or Nutrena all flock 20% protein

- The reason we use this is due to the fact that chicken feed can kill goats, this also helps feed the geese, ducks and all other birds.
- We go through 12 ton a year each ton is approx. 40bags

Sunflower Seeds w/shells – We use Nature’s Beauty wild bird seed or Nature’s Own Bird food

- These help the birds stay healthy and to keep their feathers shinny
